publisher description

this book is a compilation of real cases submitted by social workers and faculty teaching social work courses the cases help students understand how clients issues and agencies interact as well as see how that understanding connects with the actual doing of generalist social work practice the cases reflect a broad range of courses in the social work curriculum and the most current cswe standards

the use of case studies to build and test theories in political science and the other social sciences has increased in recent years many scholars have argued that the social sciences rely too heavily on quantitative research and formal models and have attempted to develop and refine rigorous methods for using case studies this text presents a comprehensive analysis of research methods using case studies and examines the place of case studies in social science methodology it argues that case studies statistical methods and formal models are complementary rather than competitive the book explains how to design case study research that will produce results useful to policymakers and emphasizes the importance of developing policy relevant theories it offers three major contributions to case study methodology an emphasis on the importance of within case analysis a detailed discussion of process tracing and development of the concept of typological theories case studies and theory development in the social sciences will be particularly useful to graduate students and scholars in social science methodology and the philosophy of science as well as to those designing new research projects and will contribute greatly to the broader debate about scientific methods this new book is a compilation of actual cases submitted by social workers and faculty teaching social work courses the authors robert rivas and grafton hull selected cases that would best help students acquire the range of skills theyll need to become effective helpers such as how to apply what they learn and how to determine what to do to offer the client maximum help this case study approach enables students to participate in learning experiences prior to field instruction courses and it also provides opportunities to discuss common experiences published in workbook form each case includes helpful guidelines in the form of questions that can be used to help students in their analyses and learning
